INTRODUCTION

Tryon County was formed from Mecklenburg County in 1769, Mecklenburg having been formed from Anson County in 1763. At its formation, Tryon County extended north to Earl Granville's line and west to the Indian line of 1767 (a portion of which is now the line between Greenville and Spartanburg Counties, South Carolina.). The eastern boundary was the Catawba River. Tryon County included all or part of the North Carolina counties of Lincoln, Gaston, Cleveland, Rutherford, Henderson, Polk, Burke and McDowell and the South Carolina counties of York, Chester, Union, Cherokee, Spartanburg, Greenville, Laurens and Newberry. While no land grants from Tryon County may have fallen as far south as Laurens or Newberry counties, the lands which were granted earlier from Mecklenburg and Anson counties came under the jurisdiction of Tryon County, e. g. the deed from Jacob and Mary Pennington to Alexander Lockart, page 28 (372-375) and the deed from John and Martha Dickinson to John Patton, page 32 (433).

The first courts of Tryon County were held in what is now York County, South Carolina. The court house site was moved into present Gaston County, North Carolina, when the border survey of 1772 determined the other site to be in South Carolina. When the border survey was made, the South Carolina county system as we know it was not yet set up. The Tryon County lands south of the border were then in Craven or Berkley (sometimes spelled Barkley) counties and/or Camden or Ninety Six District, or occasionally St. Mark's Parish was used for location. After the border survey, the lands formerly granted by North Carolina were registered in the South Carolina Land Memorials and often called "North Patents." South Carolina issued new grants for some of these lands, e. g., the grant to Giles Connel, S. C. Royal Grants, Vol. 33, p. 208, and the grant to James Gibbs, S. C. Royal Grants, Vol. 33, p. 252.

The few remaining wills and estate papers from Tryon County are in the North Carolina Archives filed with the Lincoln County records. All those pertaining to Tryon County are abstracted here as well as the lists of wills and estates from the Secretary of State's papers.

The copies of the Tryon deeds abstracted here are those in the Lincoln County Court House--Lincoln Volumes 1 and 2. While some of the original deed books are extant, they are not complete and some are in poor condition. However, they have been compared to the Lincoln copies, and the Lincoln copies are quite accurate and legible. There are some gaps in the deeds, but this does not signify that any recorded deeds have been lost. These gaps correspond with gaps in the Minutes of the Court of Pleas and Quarter Sessions. Apparently, the court did not function at certain times for one reason or another.

The Lincoln deeds are abstracted here to the end of Volume 2 (1786). Tryon County was abolished in 1779 to form Lincoln and Rutherford Counites. The Rutherford Deeds are abstracted for the same period, Volume A-d actually going on to 1787. This will take the Rutherford abstracts up to the point where Mrs. Caroline Davis began her work. As would be expected, some Tryon deeds were recorded late, after Lincoln and Rutherford Counties were formed. What may not be expected are the occasional deeds involving South Carolina lands recorded in these counties.

These deeds, wills and estates should provide many missing links for the researcher working on the Carolina frontier. This is a continuation of my abstracts of records of Anson and Mecklenburg Counties soon to be completed.

PUBLISHED PURSUANT TO AN ACT OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF VIRGINIA, PASSED ON THE FIFTH DAY OF FEBRUARY ONE THOUSAND EIGHT HUNDRED AND EIGHT.

BY WILLIAM WALLER HENING.

"The Laws of a country are necessarily connected with every thing belonging to the people of it; so that a thorough knowledge of them, and of their progress, would inform us of every thing that was most useful to be known about them; and one of the greatest imperfections of historians in general, is owing to their ignorance of law."

happy parliament in England were the greater motives to us to take the opportunity of establishing our liberties and privileges and setling our estates often heretofore assaulted and threatned and was lately invaded by the late corporation and of preventing the future designs of monopolizers contractors and preemptors ever hitherto incessant upon us not only bereaving us of all cheerfulness and alacrety but usurping the benefit and disposition of our labours and we apprehended no time could be mispent or labour misplaced in gaining a firm peace to ourselves and posterity and a future imunity and ease from taxes and impositions which we expect to be the fruits of our endeavours and to which end we have thought it seasonable for us liberally and freely to open our purses not doubting but all well affected persons will with all zeal and good affection embrace the purchase and pray to Almighty God for the success.—Given at a Grand Assembly at James City the first of July 1642.

take away either peece, powder or shott, so as such person taking away either peece, powder or shott do carrie the same to the comander of the county, and acquaint him therewith, which said comander is hereby authorized to give possession to the informer either of the peece, powder or shott so brought before him, And the said commander is further required, to make a strict inquiry and examination to find out such person that did lend or give such peece, powder or shott to the Indians, And in case the said commander or other commanders in examination shall find any person by just proofe delinquent in the premises, he or they are to bind over the said party to answer the same, before the Governor and Counsell the ensuing quarter court, And in such case the party delinquent for his just offence shall forfeit two thousand pounds of tobacco, the one halfe whereof shall be and come to the King's majesty, the other halfe to the informer, And it is further enacted that such delinquent for his second offence shall forfeit his whole estate, one halfe to the King, the other halfe to the informer. And this act to be of force after publication hereof in each county.

ACT XXIV.

Process against debtors lately arrived from England suspended.

THE Governor and Counsell with the Burgesses of the Grand Assembly haveinge taken into serious consideration the estate of the collony and finding that many people have (through their ingagements in England) forsaken their native countrey and repaired hither with resolution to abide here, hopeing in time to gain some competency of subsistance by their labors, Yet neverth'les their creditors hearing of their aboad here in the collony, have prosecuted them with their actions to the ruine of the said debtors, And having duely weighed the causes and reasons induceing such debtors to leave their countrey and friends, And if such suits and pleas be thus early admitted before the countrey shall come to better maturity, It might hazard the deserting of a great part of the country, Therefore that the generall good be preferred before the particular ends of any person, The Governor, Counsell and Burgesses do hereby enact and confirm, that all process & suits of this nature be suspended vntil his majestie shall signifie his royal pleasure herein, Provided that if it shall appear to the Governor and counsell that the debts soe impleaded have relation to the collony either for adventure of any goods or for the accomodation of any planter in or for his return into the collony, Then it shall and may be lawfull for any creditor vpon just proofe of his debt to have such releif as in justice shall be found due Any thing in this act to the contrary notwithstanding.

Proviso.

ACT XXV.

* Mr. Burk, in his History of Virginia, vol. 2, pa. 118, says that of the transactions from the period of which he was speaking (1656) to the restoration (1660) "there is an entire chasm in the records." It is to be regretted that the MSS. to which this author had access, did not furnish him with the documents which this publication so abundantly supplies. In no portion of our history during the commonwealth, have the materials been so copious, as from 1656 to 1660. Besides an entire revision of our laws in 1657-8, comprised in one hundred and thirty-one acts, and adapting them to our republican institutions, various other proceedings of the assembly prove, that at no former period were the civil and religious rights of the people so well secured (if we except the act "for suppressing the Quakers," passed after the election of Sir William Berkeley, governor, in March, 1659-60,) or justice and humanity towards our neighbors, the Indians, so sacredly regarded. In the very first act of this session, for settling the church government, instead of enjoining obedience to the doctrines and discipline of the church of England, as had been invariably the case in all former acts upon this subject, no such injunction appears. ACT XVI.

Against Runnaway Servants.

Preamble

Penalty on runaway servants for the first offence.

For the 2d offence to be branded on the shoulder with the letter R and serve double the time lost.

Penalty for entertaining them.

Remedy for servants complaining of harsh usage, or insufficient food or raiment

How to proceed.

Power of courts.

No servant to be ill used.

WHEREAS there are divers loyteringe runnawaies in this countrey who very often absent themselves from their masters service, and some times in a long time cannot be found, whereby their said masters are at great charge in finding of them, and manie times even to the losse of their yeares labour before they be had Bee it therefore enacted and confirmed, that all runnawayes that shall absent themselves from their said master's service shall be liable to make satisfaction by service at the end of their times by indenture vizt. double the time of service so neglected and in some cases more if the com'rs. for that place appointed shall find requisite and convenient, And if such runnawaies shall be found so to transgresse the second time or oftner, if it shall be duely proved against them, then they shall be branded in the shoulder with the letter R. and alsoe double their time of service neglected, and likewise double his time if at any time afterwards hee shall neglect, and in some cases more if the court shall think fitt. And be it also further enacted, That he or shee that shall lodge or harbor any runnaway shall pay thirtie pounds of tobacco for everie night as long as they shall be prooved to entertaine them, contrary to the former act about hireing of servants; And it shall be lawfull for any servant giveing notice to his master, haveing just cause of complaint against their master's by harsh and bad vsage, or else for want of diett or convenient necessaries, to repaire to the next com'r. to make his or their complaint And if the said comissioner shall find by just proofe that the said servants cause of complaint is just, the said com'r. is hereby required to give order for the warneing of the said master or mistresse before the com'rs. in the severall countie courts, where the matter in difference shall be decided, as they in their discretions shall think fitt, and that care be had that no servant or servants be misvsed by their master or mistresse where they shall find the complaint to be just.

ACT XVII.

No Amunition to be Sent or Sold to the Indians.

Person selling arms or amunition to Indian, forfeits his whole estate.

Lending such to Indian, it may be seized and appropriated by any one.

Duty of commissioner

Penalty on person lending for 1st & 2d offence.

BEE it also enacted and confirmed*, that what person or persons soever shall barter or sell with any Indian or Indians for peice, powder or shott, and being thereof lawfully convicted, shall forfeite his whole estate, The one halfe to the informer, and the other halfe to the countie where such fact shall be comitted: And be it further enacted, That what person or persons soever within this collonie shall lend any Indian either peice, powder or shott, it shall be lawfull for any person or persons meeting such Indian so furnished, to take away either peice powder or shott, so as the person takeing it away, carry the same to some com'r. of the county and acquaint him therewith, which said comissioner is hereby authorized to give possession to the informer of the said peice, powder or shott, so brought before him; And the said comissioner is further required to make strict enquiry and examination to find out such person as did lend or give such peice, powder or shott, to the Indians, and in case the said com'rs. or other com'rs. shall find any person by just proofe delinquent in the premisses hee or they are to binde over the partie to answer the same before the Governour and councill the ensueing quarter court, And in such case the partie delinquent, for his first offence, shall forfeit two thousand pounds of tobacco, The one halfe thereof to the informer and the other to the publique, And further it is enacted that such delinquent for his second offence shall forfeit his whole estate, The one halfe to the publique and the other halfe to the informer.

ACT XVIII.

PREFACE

Proper names and common nouns, including a few which appeared unrecog-izable to the transcriber, were transcribed as written by the clerk cop-ier, although some standardization was utilized in assembling the index. Each entry was abstracted in the same order in which it appears in the will book, and the opening page of each entry is noted.

On May 1, 1746, Lunenburg County, by legislation of the Virginia House of Burgesses, became an official entity, carved from the western reaches of Brunswick County, which had been formed earlier from Prince George County. Subsequent counties formed wholly or in part from what was originally Lunenburg County are Bedford (1754), Campbell (1782), Charlotte (1765), Franklin (1786), Halifax (1752), Henry (1777), Mecklenburg (1765), Patrick (1791), and Pittsylvania (1767). By 1800, which is the date with which this publication begins, the boundaries of Lunenburg County were as they are today.

These abstracts from Will Book 6 include not only the last wills and testaments of early Lunenburg residents, providing researchers with the names of children, wives, and friends but also the inventories and appraisals of their personal property, including the names of their slaves. Some of the wills mention other counties or states in which the testators have relatives or own property.

The inventories and appraisals, whether of less-advantaged households or of manor plantations, are reminders of quite another way of life from the Lunenburg County experienced today. Because certain equipment and utensils listed are not familiar to us today, the compiler has indicated alternate spelling when appropriate; definitions of most of the unfamiliar items may be found in an unabridged dictionary. For further information regarding the colonial way of life, illustrations and sketches may be found in the volumes listed in a selected bibliography which follows thi face.

Will Book 6 also includes lists of marriages with the dates ceremonies performed in the county by several different ministers registration of marriage includes the maiden name of the bride.

FOREWORD

THE JURY LISTS OF 1778 - 1779 were copied from the original handwritten lists on deposit at the South Carolina Department of Archives and History in Columbia, South Carolina. The names in this book are in the same sequence as the original lists, and every effort was made to copy the names exactly as written, including misspellings.

The handwriting was beautiful old script, but the scribes formed a few letters so similarly that some names had to be examined very carefully to be sure they were copied correctly. An alternate spelling or question mark has been added by the compilers to names that were not clearly written. However, all other words in parentheses, such as occupations or places of residence, are exactly as written on the original lists. As the original jury lists were evidently copied from tax lists* (which unfortunately no longer exist), it is possible that some errors in spelling were made in the tax lists themselves, or at the time they were copied.

South Carolina was divided into seven districts during this time period. In the jury lists, each district is divided into geographical areas, helping to pinpoint where the individuals lived. Maps are provided in the book to help locate the counties these areas were in after the county system was organized. In Camden District, "The New Acquisition" was that area once thought to be in North Carolina, but when the boundary was re-surveyed in 1772, it was established as being in South Carolina, and is present day York County. In Ninety Six District, Spartan District included what is now Spartanburg, Union and Cherokee counties. Most of the other areas are identified by parishes, rivers, and streams.

These jury lists are the closest thing we have to a complete state census before 1790. Except for the alphabetized lists, the names are probably grouped with others who lived nearby, which give clues to neighbors and relatives. These names indicate who many of the residents of South Carolina were before the influx of settlers after the Revolution. Many of the names are also found later to be residents of Georgia and other states, as the westward migration began after the Revolution.

One of the purposes in publishing this book is to make research in early South Carolina history easier for people who do not have access to the records of South Carolina. As it has been almost two hundred years since the jury lists were drawn up, we thought the celebration of the Bicentennial Anniversary of our nation's independence an ideal time to promote interest in South Carolina's history, and to encourage others with the time, interest, and ability to do likewise.

*Ref: S.C. Circuit Court Act #1095, Article XVII, 29 July, 1769. "The Judges of the said Court of Common Pleas in Charlestown shall cause lists of jurors in civil causes, grand and petit jurors, to be made for Charlestown, and also for each of the country districts and precincts, from the next antecedent tax list of persons within such respective districts or precincts aforesaid".

INTRODUCTION

The first volume in this series covered the years 1734/5-1748; the second volume, 1748-1752; third volume, 1752-1753; fourth volume 1754-1756; fifth volume 1757-1765; sixth volume 1766-1770. This seventh and final volume covers the years 1771-1774. While in most cases, the actual texts of the petitions are not included, the lists of petitions which replace them do give important information about the number of acres applied for and the location of the land. Some of the data included in the lists is similar to that included in land entry books in North Carolina, such as "where he now lives" or "including the improvements of so-and-so." Some petitions in the lists to have plats certified indicate the name of the person for whom the land was originally surveyed. When the applicant is of the same surname as the person for whom the original survey was made, we have a hint at a relationship between the two persons. The petitions for bounty indicate immigrants and give some family data. Petitions on the Kings Bounty indicate service to the British government. The journals covered in this volume contain some lists of immigrant passengers but data on their ages is not included. Some "immigrants" appear to be immigrants' children who may have been counted in the household of a parent but applied for their own land as immigrants upon their reaching adulthood. Problems with the unsurveyed border between the province of North and South Carolina continued, as mentioned in petitions, and would continue until resolved by the border surveys of 1764 and 1772. The governor of South Carolina agreed to confirm all North Carolina grants and issue new South Carolina grants for them without new surveys.

In the years covered by this volume the headright practice was to allow 100 acres for the head of the household, and 50 acres for each additional person in the household. BPRO film Volume 26, pages 314-6, 4 November 1755, in instructions to Governor William Henry Littleton, "That one hundred acres of Land be granted to every person being Master or Mistress of a family for himself or herself and 50 acres for every White or Black man, Woman or Child, of which such persons shall consist at the actual time of making the Grant ..." Some families had fairly young children (usually teenagers) who declared themselves to be the "head" of the household, or a single person, in order to obtain 100 acres of land instead of the 50 acres which would have been obtained on their right as a member of another household.

As of 31 May 1773 (see pages 261-262) the land office of South Carolina was effectually closed by order of the crown for any new surveys except for those for his majesty's soldiers by the proclamation of 1763. With few exceptions, there were no new warrants ordered otherwise. The entries after that time were for new warrants in place of those which had expired, for resurveys, for certifying lapsed plats, and for issuing South Carolina grants for lands which had been granted by North Carolina. South Carolina has no council journals after 1774.

While these seven volumes of petitions for land are a source in themselves, the information within these volumes is often best used in conjunction with other records. In order to be certain of identifying an ancestor, one should be able to place the individual in question on a tract for which there is a plat (and often a grant) in the proper period. On the plat there should be a statement such as "pursuant to a warrant dated..." or "pursuant to a precept dated..." which date should correspond roughly to the date of the entry in the council journal. The acreage of the plat and that applied for will be clues as well. The precept date may correspond to an entry in the council for a renewed warrant or plat, in which case the search for a still earlier entry should be made. Having the entries transcribed or abstracted and indexed makes such a search much easier than searching page by page in the journals.

Page numbers from the original volumes are indicated. The writer graciously acknowledges that the British copies of the Council Journals are Crown copyright and the information from those volumes is used with the permission of the Controller of Her Majesty's Stationery Office, the document references being CO 5/500, CO 5/502, and CO 5/507.

My thanks to Mr. James D. McKain who prepared the indices to this volume. Included in the place index are the names of ships (under ships) mentioned in the petitions.

Introduction

This volume contains abstracts of South Carolina memorials of land titles, 1774-1776. It is the first volume in a series planned to cover all fourteen Memorial Books, 1731 to 1776. Memorials were abstracts of land titles that owners of granted land were required by law to register in the office of His Majesty's Auditor General for South Carolina in Charleston. Memorials facilitated collection of quitrent, a form of colonial property tax.[1]

Memorials are important land records for historical, legal and genealogical research. Not all land owners adhered to the law and registered a memorial. Nevertheless, memorial records are extensive: this volume contains 4,530 memorials covering more than one and one half million acres. Some memorials provide an important record of land granted originally in North Carolina, which after resurveys of the boundary line in 1764 and 1772, fell within South Carolina. Also, there are chains of title that reference late 1600's and early 1700's grants by the Lord Proprietors and other early conveyances.

Memorials provide a profile of events associated with the granting (and sometimes the subsequent conveyance or inheritance) of a tract of land. A memorial typically includes: (1) bounding land owners and waterways; (2) certification date of the survey; (3) grant date; (4) name of person signing for the memorialist; (5) person to whom the memorial was delivered; and (6) chains of title through conveyance or inheritance, and family relationships are sometimes given. Below is the full text of a memorial that illustrates the content:

> A Memorial exhibited by Hugh Montgomery to be registered in the Aud^{r} office of a plantation or tract of Land containing 350 acres Situate in Craven County in Williamsburgh Township bounding on Lands formerly belonging to Henry Montgomery, deceased, John McKelveen and on Land formerly belonging to George Montgomery. Originally granted the {blank} of 1740 to John Holden, S^{r}., deceased, and descended to his Son, John Holden, Junr., also deceased, and now to George Fickling, Junr., his heir, who conveyed the same by Lease & Release bearing date respectively the 25th & 26th days of May 1774 to the Memorialist. Q^{t} R^{t} 3/ stg. or 4/ of pro. money per 100 acres. In witness whereof hereunto Set his hand the 11th of July 1774, Hugh Montgomery. [Memorial Book 12 - page 502: item 3]

Abstracts were made from microcopies of the Memorial Books in the collection of the South Carolina Department of Archives and History. These Memorial Books were copied in 1821 from the original Memorial Books, which are now badly deteriorated, and are not in general circulation at the Archives. Several of the Memorial Books contain blocks of memorials intermixed by year.[2] This present volume of memorial abstracts used the following microcopies:

1775-76	Book 2	Microcopy AD643
1789	Book 10	Microcopy AD647 (one memorial)

Memorials are cited by volume, page and item number at the end of each abstract (e.g. 13-189:1). ( ) are used for inclusion of material from the source record. { } are used for editorial additions by the abstractors. [ ] are used for source citations. Other than common abbreviations for compass directions, the only other ones used are; DS for Deputy Surveyor and L & R for Deeds of Lease and Release. The original Memorial Books contain signatures in some records which were not rendered as facsimiles in the 1821 copied volumes and are usually illegible; they are noted in the abstracts as {?-signature}.

Colonial land plats, which are collateral land records, and from which the metes and bounds description used in the memorials are derived, have been used in some cases to resolve missing or illegible information in a memorial. Plats are from the twenty-one volume series in the South Carolina Archives, records of the Secretary of State (office of the Surveyor General). They are cited by volume, page, and item, preceded by a "P" (e.g. P11-14:2).

Researchers may wish to follow a hierarchy of land records to supplement information from the memorials. The use of the original Memorial Books for selected research, where the records are not lost or damaged, can resolve transcription errors and provide true signatures, where they are used. Grant Books, in addition to the Plat Books, as noted above, give metes and bounds descriptions of the tract that are redundant with memorials. The metes and bounds in memorials are sometimes abbreviated over those found in the plat. The plat maps may also contain further bounding names and waterways. Loose Pre-Revolutionary War Colonial Plats are primary records and are useful in resolving missing information. Charleston Deeds and (1785 and after) deeds from counties sometimes reference colonial grants and conveyances. All these records are in the collection of the South Carolina Archives in record or microfilm form.

The encouragement of GeLee Corley Hendrix, CG, FASG and the late Reverend Silas Emmett Lucas, Jr. was important to this work.

1. For further information, see Judith M. Brimelow and Joel A. Shirley, Memorials of Seventeen- and Eighteenth-Century South Carolina Land Titles, Pamphlet (Columbia: Department of Archives and History, 1984) 12 pages.

2. The majority of the 4530 memorials were registered in 1774 (1513) and 1775 (2993). There are 19 in 1776. There is one dated in 1777 (2-432:1); one in 1778 (2-432:2); one in 1789 (10-397:1); and two in 1791 (2-286:3 and 13-500:5). One memorial dated 20 July 1769 (12-516:2) has been included since it falls within a long sequence of Memorials dated 20 July 1774. A difference between the original series and the 1821 copied series is the inclusion of certificates for town lots in Beaufort in Volume 14 in the copied series. These are not Memorials and are omitted from this present work.

30 Jun 1845 Letter from John Belton ONeall to William Wilson, Judge, stating that a Mrs. Golding wishes to have legally authenticated who are the heirs of Jacob R. Brown dec. Check your records to see if the following are the heirs:
Children of John G. Brown; Willis Brown, Sarah Hall, Matilda Golding.

27 Feb 1846 Affidavit of Judge ONeall & Hugh ONeall on which I give a Certificate to Mrs. Golding.

-Hugh ONeall stated he was well acquainted with Jacob R. Brown and often heard him say he was a Lieutenant in the Virginia army in the Revolution from start to end and was wounded at Battle of Brandywine. Died about 1805. His children, Sarah M. Hall, John G. Brown, Willis Brown, and Caroline Matilda Golding.

-This affiant knows that Jacob R. Brown sold his military land warrant in Ohio from the state of Virginia to his brother Abijah ONeall who removed in 1799 to state of Ohio and settled on a part of land thus acquired where he resided until his death. Signed Hugh ONeall.

-John B. ONeall says he knew John G. Brown, son of Jacob R. Brown, that he died intestate leaving widow, Rebecca Ann, and children, John T. Brown, Sarah C., now wife of John Goodwyn, Esq., Robert C. Brown, Manning (?) Brown, Thomas T. Brown. John T. Brown has since died leaving widow and one child, names believed to be Matilda & John. Signed John Belton ONeall. (Note: see est. 6-23)

(Widow Christian (Neely) Brown later married ---- Farrow. She died 1815; see her est. Christian Farrow #6-23. Also see Annals of Newberry, by Chapman & ONeal, pages 126 & 188.)

INTRODUCTION

Newberry County was formed in 1785 as a county of Ninety Six District. It remained in Ninety Six District through the year 1799 for higher court cases. A small corner of Newberry County (near present-day Chapin) was a part of Orangeburgh District until 1788. In the year 1800 with the end of the county court system, Newberry County became Newberry District. In the colonial period the area of Newberry County was considered part of Craven County or Berkeley (sometimes spelled Barkley) County in South Carolina. Prior to the border surveys of 1764 and 1772, the area was included in the North Carolina counties of Anson, Mecklenburg, and Tryon. For this reason a few grants and deeds from North Carolina are referenced in the Newberry County deeds. Land grants from North Carolina are frequently referred to as "north patents." The South Carolina deeds prior to 1785 were recorded in Charleston and in some cases a few years later. The Charleston deeds have been abstracted and published through the year 1788, those from 1773-1788 by the writer. The deeds of the aforementioned North Carolina counties have also been abstracted and published. The deeds in this volume were recorded 1785-1794. As is common, there are deeds recorded from a much earlier time period. The earliest deed included in this work dates from 6 July 1751 and is found in Deed Book A, page 26. Therefore, with this work, the deed abstracts for the Newberry County area are now in print from the beginning through the year 1794. Researchers should find this work unusually helpful, as the Newberry deed indices contain references only to those instruments which are transfers of real property. Depositions, deeds of gift, and bills of sale for slaves and other personal property are not included in the index available at the Newberry County Court House and on microfilm. For that reason many of these records, containing valuable genealogical information, have gone undetected by most researchers. The instruments in this volume have been abstracted from LDS microfilm and South Carolina Archives microfilm.

The Quaker community in Newberry County is apparent in deeds included in this volume, recognizable by their "affirmations" instead of oaths and in the language such as "the fifth day of the fourth month." Other early settlers in the Newberry County area were German Protestant immigrants, and some were Germans from Pennsylvania. There were also Irish Protestant immigrants, many of whom settled in the area in and around the present town of Prosperity. As indicated in some of the deeds, there were also settlers from North Carolina and other states. Migration from Newberry County to other areas of South Carolina is apparently in deeds as well.

My thanks to Mr. James D. McKain for preparing the excellent index.

certainly a fine speaker. Mrs. W. L. Talbert was in town today visiting Mrs. Doolittle, her old neighbor. Miss Minter Moultry left for Augusta to-day. It must be true, for he has been down for three days in succession-I mean the widower. Some of the young people as well as old ones went to the union meeting from this place. They say they had a fine time. I hope he will come again soon. Dr. J. C. Beall stopped over here last Saturday night. He was on his way to Augusta, from whence he hopes to return next March a young M. D. We wish him success. Miss Mary Lou Bronson is on a visit to her relatives near Edgefield village. Dr. Lee's horse ran away last Sunday evening, but did no damage. Miss Carrie Cartledge spent last Saturday and Sunday in town. Mr. L. W. Amaker was up from Augusta last Sunday. He is well pleased with his new situation. We have not been able to find out the party that stole the cotton from Stone's mill. Col. B. F. Crayton, of Anderson, sold out the carload of Jersey cows he carried to the Macon fair. SAM.

INTRODUCTION

The single most important record for any North Carolina county is the minutes of the Court of Pleas and Quarter Sessions. The court of Pleas and Quarter Sessions is the lowest court of record for the county. It was where the business of the county was carried on. As the title of the court suggests, the court met four time a year, or quarterly. From a genealogical point of view, the names of more people will appear in this court record than in any other body of county records. In fact, the only place where some names will be found is within such court minutes. Lists of deeds proved and recorded are found in the court minutes, as well as lists of wills proved or administrations on intestate estates taken out. The construction of roads and the road juries (sometimes called road gangs) who were to lay out and maintain the roads are spelled out in these records. Civil suits involving less than $150 (usually over debt), minor criminal cases, depositions, jury lists, tax officials' names with their districts, tavern licenses and tavern rates, and care of the poor of the county are among the many kinds of records included in the court minutes. The records in this volume were extracted from the microfilm copy (produced by the North Carolina Department of Archives and History) of the Tryon County Court Minutes (C.094.30001). The original volumes from which the microfilm was made are housed in that Archives in Raleigh.

Tryon County was in the southwesternmost part of North Carolina. It was formed in 1769 from the western part of Mecklenburg County, and it was bound on the north by Rowan County. Its western boundary was the Indian line run in 1767, and its southern boundary (the South Carolina line) was not surveyed west of the Catawba River until 1772. The first court for Tryon County was held at the plantation of Charles McLean, a location which is in present-day York County, South Carolina. The border survey of 1772 reduced the size of Tryon County by approximately one-half. The map included in this work indicates the approximate area covered by Tryon County at its largest. Tryon County was abolished in 1779 to form Lincoln and Rutherford counties. Of the four counties involved in the North Carolina-South Carolina border problem in the colonial period (Tryon, Mecklenburg, Anson, and Bladen), Tryon County is the only one which has extant court minutes for the period prior to the border surveys. The deeds, wills, and estates were abstracted and published by the author in 1977. Many of the Tryon County grants and plats are included in North Carolina Land Grants in South Carolina also by the author.

My thanks to Mr. James D. McKain for preparing the indices.

INTRODUCTION

This book contains abstracts of land entrys in Rowan County, North Carolina in 1753, 1761, 1778, and 1799. The original copies of the entrys in 1753, 1761, and 1799 are in the North Carolina Archives under Rowan County Miscellaneous Records (call number CR 085.408.1). These entrys are on the first 3 pages of this book. The remainder of the entrys were recorded in 1778. The original entry book for these entrys is in the North Carolina Archives (call number SS 964.3). This is not the original entry book but a copy of the entry book made by hand (in 1795) and sent from the clerk of court to the North Carolina's Secretary of State. The pages of this book have been laminated are in reasonably good shape. The microfilm records available to the public at the Archives does not have a copy of this book.

Rowan County was formed in 1753 from Anson County. The following were formed from Rowan County prior to 1778 when most of the entrys in this book were made: Guilford County in 1770, Surry County in 1770, and Burke County in 1777. Later, Iredell County was formed from Rowan in 1788, Davidson County was formed in 1822, and Davie County was formed in 1836. So the land described in these entrys may be in the present day counties of: Davidson, Davie, Iredell, or Rowan Counties. Earlier records may be found in Anson or Bladen Counties. Also, the early deeds (1753-1785), court records (1753-1789 in 3 books), and wills (1753-1805) have been published by Mrs. Stahle Linn of Salisbury, NC.

An entry is a claim made to the appointed entry taker by the enterer for vacant or unclaimed land which was technically the property of the State. The enterer described the land--number of acres, nearby waterways, and neighboring land holders. If there were no problems, the entry taker issued a warrant to the county surveyor to survey the land. The warrant and survey may also describe the land and give additional land marks not mentioned in the original entry. The warrant and completed survey were sent to the Secretary of State. A grant or patent was then issued, and the person receiving the grant usually had about twelve months to register the grant in the county.

However, problems or counter claims did often appear. Some of these problems were:

(1) A "caveat" could be issued (after the entry and before the grant) to stop the grant from being issued. The person making a caveat could say he already owned part or all of the land. The entry taker usually indicated in the entry book if a caveat was made against all or part of an entry an entry and who made the caveat. Then a jury would settle the dispute. This decision could be: (a) in favor of the caveater in which case the entry was void or discontinued or the enterer withdrew the entry and the caveater did nothing more; or (b) in favor of the caveater for part of the entry and the caveater retained his part of the land and the enterer obtained a grant for the remainder; or (c) in favor of the caveater and the caveater made a later entry on the land and obtained a grant; or (d) in favor of the enterer so he gets a grant for the land.

2) After the entry was made and the warrant issued, the surveyor may encounter problems finding enough vacant land. This problems was usually resolved by changing the entry so the number of acres matched the survey. The entry taker often made corrections in the entry book in the case of shortages by writing the new number on top of the original entry.

(3) Fees were required to cover the entry, warrant, survey, & grant. If any fee was not paid, the entry was usually discontinued or abandoned and the land was still "vacant" for someone to claim. This later claim may be (a) by a later numbered entry or (b) by using the same entry number and the entry taker wrote the new name on top of the original name.

(4) In addition to the above problems, the entry taker may have made normal mistakes while writing in the entry book. So some "write overs" indicated in my abstracts may be due to entry taker's error and some may be due to problems encountered during the process of obtaining the grant.

Prior to 1777 obtaining land in North Carolina was not well organized. Records of land grants survive in the Secretary of State's Office; only rarely the land entrys for these grants mentioned in county court records. Only a few land entrys of this early period survive in the Archives for Rowan County. These have been included at the first of this book. The land entry system in North Carolina was better organized by a law passed in 1777 by the General Assembly. Under this law one entry taker was to be appointed in each county. It was under this law that the land entrys in the books SS 964.3 and 964.4 were made. There are later land entrys (in the NC Archives) for Rowan and succeeding counties into the 1900s. Most of the later entrys are on loose sheets of paper and are for various time periods or one entry per page.

In my abstracts, I have tried to adhere to the following format:

(a) Entry number; sometimes the entry number was omitted (see entrys on first two pages for example); a number was assigned to these entrys.

(b) Date of the entry.

(c) Name of person making the entry or claim; number of acres; and description of the land (usually) in this order: waterways, neighboring land owners (following the word "border"), roads, etc, and an indication if any "improvement" was mentioned.

The punctuation is almost entirely mine and is included to aid the reader and divide the parts of entry into the areas described above.

If you find an "interesting" land entry, please write the Land Office (part of the Secretary of State's Office) NOT the North Carolina Archives. Give the person's name and county because that's how the information is filed there. If the grant was completed, there will probably (but not always) be a copy of the warrant for survey and the survey in the Land Office. The warrant often gives information quite similar to the land entry. The survey is more valuable in locating the land and usually is a map giving compass directions and distances between the corners. The chain bearers are often mentioned on the survey but neighboring land holders aren't mentioned as often. Using the entry, warrant, & survey, it is much easier to find the land and determine you have the correct grant when the number of acres change after the original entry.

If you know a person owned land in Rowan County, do not despair if you don't find an entry for him in this book. Many entrys were made when the land was a part of Anson or Bladen Counties. Very few of the entries prior to 1778 survive in an of these three counties. But the warrant and/or survey may exist in the Land Office (part of the Secretary of State's Office--not the Archives). Or the grant may survive in the Land Office or county deeds. So, the entry may be lost, but the grant might still exist. When writing the Land Office, send the person's name and county or counties where he lived because that's how the information is filed.

Please refer to North Carolina Research Genealogy and Local History by H. F. M. Leary and M. R. Stirewalt for additional information about land entrys and the land granting process in North Carolina. This book also contains a dictionary of legal terms often encountered in genealogical work as well as almost everything a genealogist needs to know about North Carolina research.

The map with accompanies this book is included to help the reader locate the creeks which are mentioned most often in the index. The creek locations are not meant to be exact. More complete and accurate maps of the counties can be obtained from the North Carolina Department of Transportation or in a book of maps for all North Carolina counties from County Maps, Puetz place, Lyndon Station, WI. Also the North Carolina Archives sells a set of maps including maps of the state for 1775, 1808, and 1833.

A separate index has been provided for each section of this book. The numbers in the index are the entry numbers, not the page numbers. At the end of each index is a section devoted to geographical place names, i.e. creek, rivers, fords, mills, etc.

The author wishes to thank the North Carolina Archives for preserving this book and thank the staff for their courteous retrieval of the book from the stacks. He would also like to thank the people who brought forth affordable computers, printers, and software without which the preparation of this book would have been much more arduous.
